

Hi Sunny / Salman / Anne,

My wife and I had our wedding at this venue in 2017.

The location, central in town, in a beautiful Architectural building captured everything we loved about Vancouver and Canada.

The Architect clearly intended this space to be used for gathering, with doors and openings out onto a patio and infinite pond.

It seems almost comical that your intention is to turn the space into offices, just as Covid is redefining how the population will shift to working from home.

What we need is large, spaces that can allow congregating in the future, along with preserving our very best and special Architectural gems. Vancouver is short of venues this size, that allow the event to have access to safe, exterior space.

Hopefully you all see sense, and reconsider your decision.

Thanks,

David Arnott
